Summary

I am currently pursuing my second master's degree in software development at Victoria University of Wellington and am actively seeking opportunities as a software developer or cloud engineer. I am skilled in various programming languages, data structures, version control, and more. Additionally, I am expanding my knowledge in cloud computing and hold an AWS Cloud Practitioner certification. I differentiate myself through a unique blend of academic background (economics, Chinese studies and software development), working experience, and strong soft skills, which collectively set me apart in the realm of technology.
